Types of Alopecia

Alopecia areata

Hair falls out in round or oval patches, on the head, beard, eyebrows, and eyelashes

Androgenetic alopecia

Hairs grow in 'tufts' or groups of three to four hairs. These tufts of hair shrink, reducing the total number of hairs

Traction alopecia

Where the hair falls out due to being pulled in one direction for too long, such as with a tight ponytail

Central centrifugal cicatricial alopecia

A type of scarring that usually starts in the centre of the scalp and spreads outwards slowly

Chemotherapy induced alopecia

Hair loss usually starts around 2-4 weeks after starting chemotherapy

Lichen planopilaris

A type of scarring alopecia which destroys the hair follicle, causing smooth, shiny patches of bare scalp
